acre location, donated by W. L. (Buddy) Billups, Hammond businessman and a longtime Davis supporter.

The newspaper said a survey it made showed the national association for retarded children would offer similar consulting service for travel expenses only.

Hutchinson made his statements before he left town in January to both the State-Times and the district attorney's office, the newspaper said.

The State-Times said the information had been kept confidential since Jan. 11, until now, to permit investigation.

Charles Rosenblum, state hospital director, said the Kiene contract was signed March 11.

"We need a fulltime man who can be on the spot at all times," he commented. He described Kiene, 31, who has wide experience in Louisiana hospital affairs, as a "very capable and conscientious young man."

The State-Times said it had learned Dr. Gunner Byxvad, New York, director of the national association for retarded children, offers consulting service in return for only travel expenses.

Rosenblum said he, Kiene and an aide next Tuesday would visit institutions in Little Rock—served by Dr. Byxvad—and a model hospital for the retarded in Denton, just outside Dallas, Texas.

Architects for the new Hammond unit said they never heard of Hutchison and had nothing to do with Kiene's selection.

The State-Times said Hutchison told this story:

Hutchison said a personal friend and a Baton Rouge man claiming to represent a New Orleans architectural firm approached him separately.

They asked if he would be interested in a consultant's post at a new facility for retarded children. He said he was told the salary would be about one percent of $3 million—the cost of the facility.

Hutchison said he was told he would be paid in cash and that 25 percent of his salary was to be turned over to a high state official, to be made known to him later. The official's name was not mentioned.

Hutchison said he checked with a national association and it offered its services free for such consultation except for travel expenses.

He told his friend that he would prefer to see the $300,000 go for equipment at the children's institution. But the friend replied Hutchison might as well take the offer as someone else would.

"A week or ten days later," Hutchison said, "I was called by election on the charter changes, the forecast called for partly cloudy weather with scattered showers early Saturday.

Morrison's forces held their last citywide rally at a crayfish boil at Municipal Auditorium Friday night and made election eve TV appearances. Comiskey and Ziblich also staged TV rallies for their final appearances.

"Looking back, I realize I should have left the possibility for negotiation open and tried to learn more."

Rosenblum said he never had met Hutchison and he suggested Kiene for the job because he "needed a man on the spot."

The state hospital director said no one in his department has ever approached anyone with any kind of offer such as Hutchison outlined.

"Time and time again," Rosenblum added, "I've had propositions and I've put them back on me."

Rosenblum, a Hammond businessman, was appointed to his post by the late Earl K. Long, and Gov. Davis retained him on the job.

Rosenblum said no one in the governor's office or from the state board and building commission had approached him about Kiene.

Rosenblum said he was informed if he felt Kiene was a good man for the job, the contract would be approved.

The State-Times quoted Kiene as saying Dr. Byxvad's mention of free services for the retarded children's institution involved the area of clinical administration with Kiene's selection.

The chunky, white-haired defense attorney repeated charges that a declaration signed by Eichmann in which the former head of the Gestapo's Jewish affairs section expresses a willingness to be tried in Israel, was signed under duress.

Servatius asserted German courts have completely dealt with cases similar to the Eichmann affair in several instances since the war.

He referred to an argument advanced by prosecutor Gideon Hausner in which the Israeli attorney general said laws such as the one under which Eichmann is being tried, had to be passed to fill a "vacuum." No laws existed to deal with crimes such as those committed by Nazis, Hausner said.

"Here, in this case of the accused, there is no such vacuum in existence. There is a German court following existing laws."

Eichmann is being tried under the Nazis and Nazi collaborators law passed by the Israeli Parliament in 1950. Servatius has argued this law is inapplicable in the Eichmann case since it was enacted after the crimes of which Eichmann is accused were committed.

was on parole from Arkansas state Penitentiary for another murder. After killing Jackson, he kidnapped his second cousin, Jetta Harist, 21, and her boy friend at Fort Worth.

He raped Miss Harist. She jumped out of a moving automobile several months later and killed herself. She was said to have been despondent since Jones had ravished her.

Jones subsequently kidnapped Mrs. Margaret Sears, 24, and her 23-month-old daughter, Cynthia, near Fort Worth. He let them go unharmed at San Antonio.

In a desperate attempt to get across the border into Mexico, he kidnapped Mrs. Rosalinda Sosa, 30, and Carlos Gualdarrama, 30, of San Antonio. They escaped at Laredo. Jones was captured while trying to mount a horse near the border.

Expect Good Peach Crop This Season

RUSTON (Special) — Ray M. Stringfield, representative of the Louisiana Crop Marketing Commission, said here this week that agents from his office will arrive here about May 10 to handle peach sales publicity and will stay on the job through July and mid-August.

Marvin Fowler, president of the local Peach Growers group, said, "Indications are that we will have a good crop, for the leaf crop is the best in 15 years."

"It takes from 30 to 35 mature leaves to make one two-inch peach," he said.

Vagrancy

Two men were booked by Monroe police Friday for vagrancy. Police identified them as Richard Curtis, 46, Hamblin, Mo., and Buddy C. Wheeler, Marlon.

A MONSTER GAR weighing 178 pounds and measuring seven feet, seven inches was captured by Pat Wyant (left) and Huey Lenard who posed with the catch Friday. The huge fish was trapped in Ouachita river back water in a field west of the river. It was supposed that the gar ventured from the main river bed in search of fish spawning in the back waters. dropping the antenna against the radar screen, which grounded it and made it ineffective.

Radio operator Joseph Armstrong, 57, of Delanco, N. J., said he "patched up a lead to a little antenna we had" and sent out the call for help.

Replies poured in. From the Coast Guard came word three of its cutters were on the way—as fast as they could go through the storm.

The Esso Raleigh, bound for Boston with a full cargo of high octane gasoline, was off Cape Cod, heading for Boston.

The Raleigh skipper, Capt. Leslie H. Winder, of Hudson, Va., immediately altered his course and headed north for 70 miles to the scene of the wreck, 42 miles southeast of Portland, Lightship.

The motorship Daru and the Liberian freighter Brother George also sent reassuring word.

Capt. Ruse, meanwhile, held his men aboard, hoping his ship would hold together until daylight, when their chances of safely launching their boats, and of a quick rescue, would be immediately better.

"It was safer to stay on the ship, as long as we were afloat," Capt. Ruse said.

Surprise came about 5 a. m., and so did the Esso Raleigh, looming into sight through snow and rain. The winds still were high, the seas rough.

Only nine men got off in the first boat. Others were ready, but the seas swept the boat away from the sinking ship too quickly.

Capt. Ruse and the 25 others remaining piled into the other lifeboat and pulled for the Esso Raleigh. The boat with nine men headed for the Daru.

"I was quite sure my ship was gone," Capt. Ruse said. "She was like a V—the bow way out of the water, the stern up with the screw out of water."

School Vote Suit Reset For May 5

was not actually seeking to stop the election, but if the local option school election act is found unconstitutional, defendants may be stopped from carrying out provisions of the act.

Arguments by attorneys centered on the question of whether the hearing was premature.

Atty. Gen. Jack Gremlion, counsel for the board, asked the court to dismiss the suit.

He contended the court had no jurisdiction, that the desegregation decision was still on appeal, that the St. Helena board was not responsible for the election and had no power to stop it, and the results would not be a mandate on the board for action.

Thursgood Marshall, national counsel for the NAACP, argued that it was the proper time for action, not after the election and possible closure of schools.

He contended the court should tell the school board, which is under injunction, it "should be working toward integration" as ordered instead of making any moves toward an election to stop it.

Marshall asked school board president Carl Stone if the board had taken any action to desegregate the school. Stone replied no.

Gremlion asked Stone if he would abide by results of the election if the vote was to close schools. Stone answered: "Until we have a meeting of the board, I don't know what we're going to do."

Marshall asked schools Supt. J. L. Meadows if he had issued a circular calling for a discussion of private schools in the parish. Meadows said he did, but not as an official of the board.

Asked if he had taken any action toward implementing the desegregation order, Meadows replied: "I haven't done anything because I haven't been authorized to do anything by the board."

Marshall was forced to withdraw this question to Stone: "Insofar as your opinion, are you in favor of whites and Negroes going to school together in public schools?"

After Judge Wisdom asked a pledge from the school board not to take any action after the election until a decision, Gremlion conferred with the board officials, promised temporarily and inform the court if the full board objected.

House Moving Rules, Deadline Are Announced

Dale Martha of the Monroe Building Inspector's office said Friday that all applications for moving houses must be in his office "at least 24 hours ahead of the time the house is to be moved."

Any house moved to a new location in Monroe also has to meet zoning requirements for the lot onto which it is moved.

Martha pointed out that the zoning check must go through Zoning provided for this before the house is moved.

At present, Martha's office is swamped with requests to move houses from the right-of-way of Interstate Highway 20.

He called on local residents to cooperate with his office, West Monroe and State Police in the house moving operations.

Several rules currently are in effect concerning house moving, following a meeting of officials of the Monroe, West Monroe and State Police in the house moving operations.

Several rules currently are in effect concerning house moving, following a meeting of officials of the Monroe, West Monroe and Troop F State police departments, the building inspector's office and contractors.

Building Inspector W. C. Hines Jr. also has repeated the ruling that when any building is moved or demolished the lot or building site must be completely cleared off, including trash and shrubs, and any basements, wells or shafts must be filled in level with surrounding land.

Rules for house moving are: If a building is being moved from Monroe to West Monroe, the West Monroe building inspector's office must issue a permit before the Monroe office does. In the same way, Monroe must issue permits for houses being moved to Monroe from West Monroe, before that city does so.

A state police permit is necessary for buildings destined for a site outside the city limits.

Any house being moved over state or parish highways may not exceed 18 feet in width, unless it is narrow enough to allow cars to pass or is being moved less than one mile.

No houses may cross the old bridge, and houses more than 22 feet wide may not cross the new bridge.

Maximum width for houses moved is 3 feet six inches. Maximum height, from ground to top after it is loaded on a truck, is 16 feet.

If movement of a house will require moving a highway sign, permission must be obtained from the highway department.

West Monroe has an ordinance that houses already purchased to be moved to the east side of the Ouachita River must be moved by April 30.

Outrage In Housing

A new height in absurdity and unfairness will be reached in a housing program being projected in Washington, D.C. Through it, taxpayers who provide their own housing will help pay the rent on government-owned houses occupied by other persons with incomes as great or greater than their own. It is difficult to see how any scheme could be devised that would reveal with greater clarity the desire of the present administration to turn over all ownership to the government.

At a time when the administration is appealing for about $5 billion to carry out new housing programs, plans just announced by the public housing administrator in Washington are enough to make the hair of an ordinary citizen stand on end. The opinion is that if the plan is put over in Washington it will be carried out in the rest of the country also.

Francis X. Servaites, the executive director, plans to do this:

Purchase existing homes at around $12,000, spend up to $2,500 renovating them and then rent them to "carefully selected," "higher income" public applicants for rents "they can afford."

Heretofore, government housing presumably has been for those unable to pay enough to get what the government called good housing. Now the government wants to provide government-owned houses for those who can afford to pay and wants to do it with the money of other taxpayers. This is nothing more nor less than an administration move toward government ownership of all housing—in other words out-and-out socialism.

Washingtonians are not aware that there is any housing shortage. It is easily apparent that the plan will add no new housing. It simply turns a large proportion of the existing houses over to the government and then rewards those who are willing to move into government-owned houses, while punishing those who wish to own their homes.

This does not look like a sensible way to spend the money of a government that is already bleeding.

Eradication Of Polio

A pathfinder program for the announced purpose of eradicating polio has been launched in Dauphin county, Pennsylvania. If it is successful, it could mean the end of polio in the United States and eventually in the rest of the world.

In Dauphin county, the program got off to a spectacular start when 17 members of the Grab family got in line for their oral polio vaccine. Three of the 18 children of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grab were out of town and unable to participate in the first official gulping program but are expected to take the vaccine later.

This was a part of the first of a series of one-day community-wide programs being conducted by the Dauphin County Medical Society.

Medical authorities and sponsors of the vaccine say the overall program could lead to the total eradication of polio in the community of 240,000. All those in the community, whether or not they have had Salk vaccine shots, are being urged to take the oral vaccine.

Reportedly, this vaccine has already been successfully administered to more than 300,000 Americans in other communities. It has been given to an estimated 70 million persons in eastern Europe.

In Dauphin county, the medical society hopes 150,000 will participate. Enough vaccine for 200,000 persons was supplied without charge by one of the nation's big drug manufacturers.

the taxpayers and, at the same time, is operating knee-deep in the red.

This isn't low-cost housing either. A large proportion of the brand new homes in the Washington area are sold for $14,500 or less.

All taxpayers are to be charged for the benefit of a few taxpayers whose earnings may be on a par with their own. This is grossly unfair. Further subsidies will be provided also in the form of exemption from full local taxation, in the usual public housing manner.

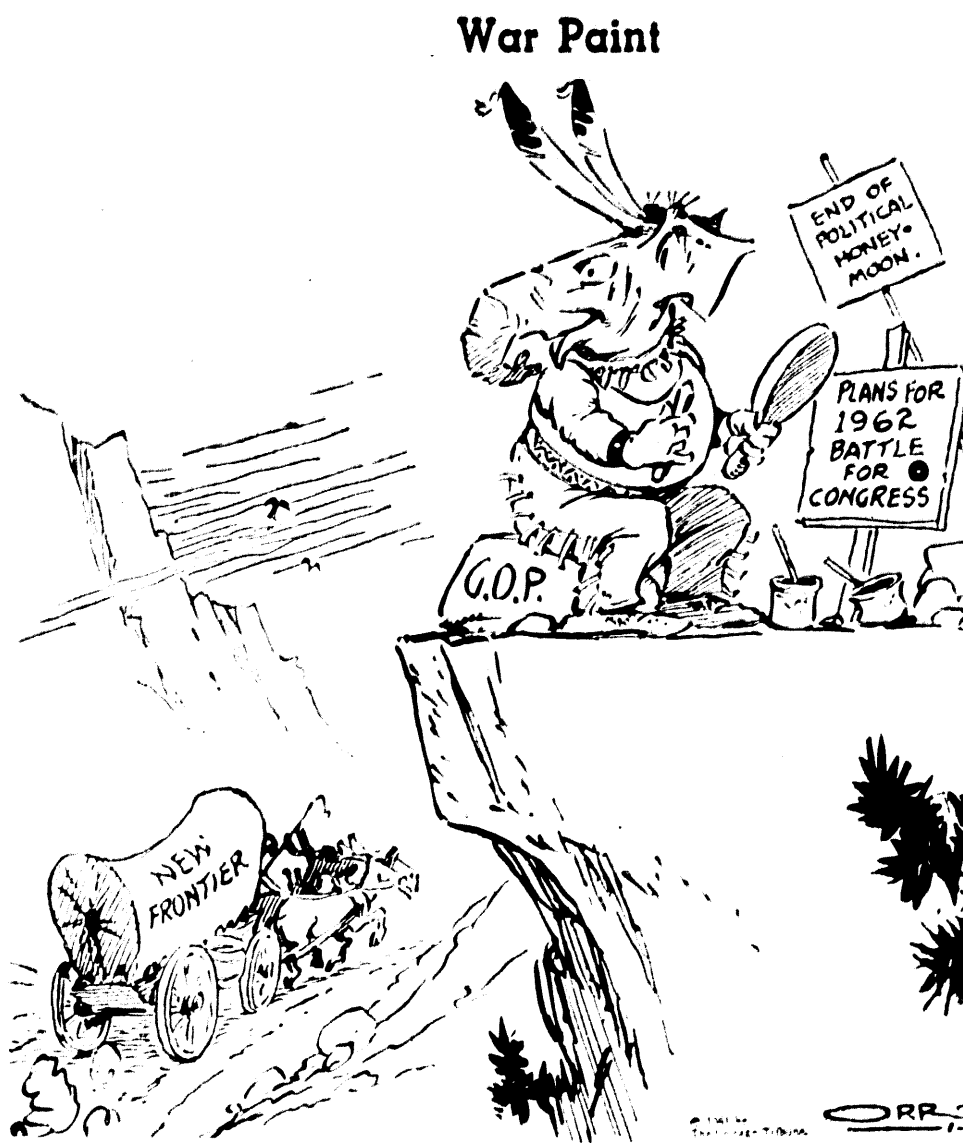

What housing a family "can afford" depends to a large extent on the family. If it can't afford the kind of housing it wants, quite often the reason is that the family budget is diverted to other items. Few of us have all the money we want but if we could cut down on our housing costs we would have more money to blow in for things we don't need. Even among the so-called needy now using housing which the public subsidizes most clients own cars and television sets.

The person with an average income, given public housing at taxpayer expense, could afford more luxuries than most of us can pay for.

Doubtless, most of the "carefully selected," "higher income" clients would be Negroes brought into Washington on good government salaries. President Kennedy reportedly is encouraging more educated Negroes to seek "positions" in Washington, although the percentage of Negroes holding public jobs is already far out of proportion.

If these Negroes get government pay equal to that of what white people receive and the government provides them with houses subsidized by the taxpayers, they will really be able to live "high on the hog." Of course, it is probable that some of this easy housing will go to so-called "liberal," radicals and socialists who can be expected to proclaim the great advantages of living in government-owned homes.

Is this free America?

Kennedy Travels Favored Democratic Chairman John Bailey And Other Party Leaders Think He Should Get Around In Own Country

President Kennedy may do quite a bit of traveling in his own country later this year.

Democratic Chairman John Bailey and other party leaders strongly favor that.

While the matter is still in the preliminary talk stage and no planning has yet been undertaken, it is significant that these political strategists deem it important the President make a series of personal appearances in major sections of the country in the fall.

High on their list are the Midwest and Pacific Coast, where the Republicans scored heavily last year.

At the annual Midwest Democratic Conference last week, leaders from every participating state told Bailey the President "must" make a tour of their section and urged him to impress that on the President.

They contended that would greatly help the party locally and the President nationally. Nebraska Governor Frank Morrison already has invited the President to address the centennial ceremonies for the late great Senator George Norris, militant public power champion and author of the original Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) legislation. No date has been set for this anniversary pending word from the President.

Similarly, Governor "Pat" Brown of California is eager to have the President go there. Brown, under heavy fire in his state and facing a tough reelection battle next year, feels a Kennedy visit would appreciably help him.

The President is evincing definite interest in such speaking trips. As yet, he has not authorized any preparations. But that the general idea decidedly appeals to him is indicated by his remark in one conversation, "What about the South? Why not make a swing there? We have a great many friends in those States."

Currently the President has four speaking dates on his schedule—in Chicago, April 23, at a Jefferson-Jackson Day fund-raising dinner; Washington, May 27, at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner in honor of his birthday; a similar affair in Boston on May 29; and a commencement address in June at the University of West Virginia in Morgantown.

Chairman Bailey also wants Vice President Lyndon Johnson and members of the cabinet to "get about the country" after Congress adjourns.

The National Committee has numerous requests for speeches by Johnson. Commerce Secretary Luther Hodges, Postmaster General Edward J. Ives, H.W. Secretary Abraham Ribicoff, Labor Secretary Arthur Goldberg, Navy Secretary John Connally and Army Secretary Elvis Stahr.

NEW FRONTIER — Camp David, in nearby Maryland, may be used by President Kennedy and his family after all. Before taking office, he indicated no interest in this 600-acre camp in Catoctin Mountain Park that was used as a retreat for both rest and business by his three immediate predecessors — Franklin Roosevelt, Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower. But now Kennedy is having second thoughts, and has asked his personal physician, Dr. Janet Travell, to inspect and report on the camp. It has had a series of names. FDR called it "Shangri-La," and used it for secret conferences with Winston Churchill and other Allied leaders. President Eisenhower named the place "Camp David" for his grandson. The facilities include a main lodge for the President and his family, three guest cabins, a swimming pool, two tennis courts and a bowling alley.

Vice President Johnson, who has died of more than 15 pounds in the past several months, is now boasting he is wearing suits made for him ten years ago.

Treasury Secretary Dillon, lifelong Republican and Undersecretary of State in the Eisenhower Administration, has become one of President Kennedy's closest cabinet advisers. Kennedy consults Dillon on a wide range of domestic and foreign problems. In the past several weeks, the President has conferred with Dillon one or more times a day either personally or by phone. Dillon is very proud of this close association.

Interior Undersecretary James Carr is a rugged Californian, but he is finding the New Frontier highly demanding. Asked by a friend to sum up his first two months, Carr replied wearily, "Exhausting. We work a 70-hour week, and are lucky it's no worse."

POLITICALS — Former Governor Alf Landon, Kansas, 1936 Republican presidential candidate, asked what he thought of the Birch Society, replied, "It is a bunch of stuffed-shirt crackpots doing more harm than good. There is a group of them in my state, and they are the center of the right-to-work legislation, which I have consistently opposed."

Representative Wayne Hays (D., O.), after receiving a series of caustically badgering letters from a constituent, sent him the following, "Dear Sir: In recent weeks I have been hearing from a crackpot who has written letters signed with your name. I thought you ought to know about that before he gets out of hand." Hays says he hasn't heard from the writer since.

Republican Chairman Thurston Morton, who is quitting next month to start campaigning for reelection as senior Senator of Kentucky, is stepping up his sharpshooting at the Kennedy regime. In a talk to Young Republicans from Kentucky, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland, Morton told them, "Washington has become a Harvard Yard annex . . . and JFK really means Jobs for Kinfolks."

Dear friend, I take my pen today . . . With purpose that I may convey . . . My thanks for kindly thoughts conceived . . . In lines I have from you received . . . My friend, a gentle word can be . . . GEORGE SOKOLSKY 100 Days Ending 'Honeymoon' For President John Kennedy Will Stop Soon

It is customary, in this country, where Administrations can be changed every four years, to give an incoming President an opportunity to get started without too much opposition. Generally, he appoints to his Cabinet whomever he chooses. He is given time to acquaint himself with public affairs, the American people generously assuming that a President needs to learn the intimacies of his job.

President John Kennedy has been treated better than most Presidents have been by the press by Congress and by the opposition party, the Republican Party. This is undoubtedly due to his charming personality, his swift approach to the problems which he faces, the delightful characters of his wife and daughter, to the relief from the cold and distant personality which President Eisenhower chose to present to his people.

Now, the first 100 days are reaching their close. Jack Kennedy is now a full-fledged President, standing on his own, to be criticized and even attacked, as is customary in our country. I think President Kennedy will have a longer period of respite than most Presidents have had because the times are so perilous and many of the issues are hardly understood by the American people.

How much do most of us really understand of the piling up of issues in the Congo, in Laos, in South Vietnam, in Peking, in Moscow? More and more our people are becoming conscious of the fact that some time in the past, events have occurred and agreements have been made which are damaging to the United States. Young men and women who are now coming of age, wonder why they are being burdened by the errors of their elders. They do not remember Roosevelt or much about Truman. They are not mystified by the amazing statesman of World War II, the great Churchill, the mysterious Stalin, the wicked Hitler, the gross Mussolini. These are names like Julius Caesar or Napoleon or even Genghis Khan. They see these names in books but they do not feel the impress of their personalities.

They are not astounded by the atom bomb or the hydrogen bomb. Many of them have studied sufficient science to know all about such toys. They take things in their stride that we elders never heard about. They read symbols which are gibberish to us. The nature of their education has changed.

Do they know more? That depends upon what one means by the word, know, and that brings us back to President Jack Kennedy. He is closer to the younger generations than almost any President has been. This gives him an enormous advantage over a man like Eisenhower who was an elderly gentleman of the generation of World War II. Kennedy is current. Each generation approaches identical problems differently and Kennedy approaches current problems in closer consonance to his own generation. His is bound to be a very different approach from that of either Eisenhower or Truman.

Thus, some of Kennedy's attitudes are shocking to an older generation, but that does not matter. What is significant are the results of his thinking and his actions. The Kennedy-Macmillan Conferences could not have been anything like the Roosevelt-Churchill Conferences, say, at Quebec. Roosevelt tended to be a flatterer; Churchill was a salesman, selling the glories of the British Empire for full American support. Churchill did an amazingly good job for his country which will ever honor him for his success. Jack Kennedy is not likely ever to make such a deal as Roosevelt made at Teheran. Jack Kennedy will probably develop into a nationalist as he grows in the Presidency.

During the first 100 days there have been many excursions and alarms but it is too early to see any results of all the activity. In times like these, the course of events is never swift, although patience and reticence often become defeat. On the other hand, we are so close to a shooting war with the Soviet Universal State, that the President wants to be sure that should war come, it is war by choice, not war by accident. This is one of President Kennedy's major problems, as he is being teased into starting a fight, several theaters being offered him at once. The Russians still hold the initiative and it needs to be taken from them. That will be the task of the next hundred days.

Buying Now Pays Prices In General About As Low As They're Likely To Be

Now, during these bottoming-out weeks of the 1960-61 recession, it's a good time for you to buy — goods you want for yourself and your family, supplies you must have for your office or factory, money you know you'll need for your personal deals or business operations.

When you'll read the reasons listed directly below, you will consider them ridiculously simple. But the very simplicity of them should command your respect. It's a good time for you to buy goods, supplies, money, BECAUSE:

Prices in general are about as low as they're going to get and signs of stiffening are spreading. The vitally important index of raw materials prices has been rising for some weeks. The nation's leading purchasing agents report a declining number of price cuts, a scattering of price hikes. Many commodity prices which slipped during the 1960-61 recession are moving back up again. The consumer price level crept up throughout the recent recession and there's little basis for expecting any downturn to develop at this stage. Not by any yardstick can today's price level be called low, but "low" is a slippery word and the main point is that the outlook for now is for stable to higher prices.

Supplies of just about everything you might need or want — running from a tiny personal item to a house — are ample. There is no prospect whatsoever for scarcities, quite the contrary. The fact that you can select from the greatest variety of products in years, though, that you can buy at your leisure should be rated a distinct "plus."

Competition across the board is the fiercest in memory — a condition which surely is no news to you and which always favors the buyer. Whether you can bargain depends on what you're buying, where you're buying, many other factors that can't be specified in this report, but you certainly can try. We're into the first real buyers' market since before World War II. It's bona fide, it's widespread, it's based on fundamental developments, and it means you, the buyer, are in the favored position.

The cost of money is as cheap as it will become — with the possible exception of mortgages — and it's also as available as it will become, assuming the next movement in our economy is upward. As business activity quickens and the demand for credit increases, the normal pressures will be for higher, not lower, interest costs. Under these circumstances, loans won't become any easier than now. This is a good time to buy money — a point of particularly crucial significance to businessmen planning to expand their operations and modernize.

The quality of goods is the finest in years. "Quality" is a slippery word too, but, comparatively speaking, the buyer is being benefited on this front.

The average pay scale is heading up in 1961 and, although the hope is that wage-salary hikes will not be sufficient to force price increases, they surely will not leave room for voluntary price cuts.

At the heart of this analysis is, of course, the accumulating evidence that the fourth recession of post-World War II has ended and our country is moving into another upturn. This has been among the mildest, shortest business declines on record and now the emphasis is properly on assuring that the next upturn will be strong and sustained. At the highest policy-making levels, the attitude is that if helping to make the upturn powerful enough to slash our unemployment rate to tolerable levels puts some upward pressure on prices, so be it — this is the lesser of the two evils.

And even at this early date in the recovery, there is a buoyancy among many businessmen which will work against further price reductions. While we would have to be monumentally stupid to set off another inflation spiral in our land, there is no doubt that we have built in a bias toward a gradually higher price level over the years.

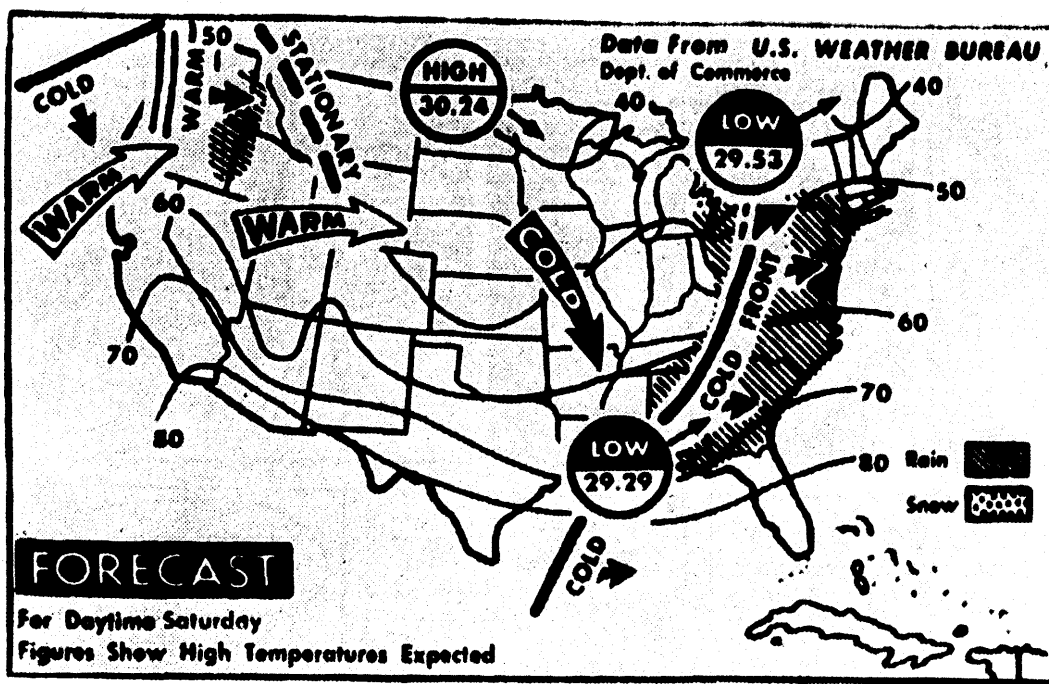

Add up all the simple sentences and you'll come to the complex conclusion that this is indeed a good time to buy goods, supplies and money.

In other action: Bert C. Borden, 22, of 303 Riverbend, West Monroe, was fined $20 or 30 days on a charge of reckless driving and causing a wreck.

James A. Harville, of 204 Vernon St., West Monroe, was fined $20 or 10 days on a charge of reckless driving and causing a wreck.

Trespassing

A Negro man, Solomon King, 41, 1702 Hollywood Dr., Monroe, was booked for trespassing by a Contra Costa Junior College student.

Within a month we will send up another balloon with a movie camera instead of a still camera.

Guidici and Kelly MacDonald, 17, an El Cerrito High School senior, said their goal is to send a balloon 100,000 feet or higher.

The camera was found Wednesday on a farm 25 miles from the launching site. The boys said an instrument package the balloon carried had been released at 60,000 feet.

Two El Cerrito teen-agers are busy analyzing data received from an instrument balloon they say sailed to an altitude of more than 60,000 feet March 31.

The pictures taken from 10,000, 20,000 and 60,000 feet were very good, said Dave Guidici, 15, a Contra Costa Junior College student.

The pictures taken from 10,000, 20,000 and 60,000 feet were very good, said Dave Guidici, 15, a Contra Costa Junior College student.

Within a month we will send up another balloon with a movie camera instead of a still camera.

Guidici and Kelly MacDonald, 17, an El Cerrito High School senior, said their goal is to send a balloon 100,000 feet or higher.

The camera was found Wednesday on a farm 25 miles from the launching site. The boys said an instrument package the balloon carried had been released at 60,000 feet.

Two El Cerrito teen-agers are busy analyzing data received from an instrument balloon they say sailed to an altitude of more than 60,000 feet March 31.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Jackie Gleason is jazzing up the scenery in Gay Paree, where he's about to start filming "Gigot," directed by Gene Kelly. He zooms around in a red and turquoise Rolls Royce equipped with a telephone, a bar and a television set. . . . A brunette beauty is trying to give Judy Holliday serious competition for Gerry Mulligan's heart. . . . Peggy King, who was reported making various Hollywood scenes with her ex-husband, denies any romantic implications. She says he just came over to bring her a dog he'd bought her, and after that dropped by a few times to feed it. (Oh.)

Now it's reported that the Russians would like to start paying royalties on U. S. plays and music, but on a barter, rather than a cash basis. (How many tractors a week for "My Fair Lady"?) . . . Broadway will welcome Patti LaBelle again next season as the lead in Tennessee Williams' "Night of the Witches." She'll play a sex-driven American who runs a boarding house in New Orleans. (Thank heaven Tennessee has come back to abnormality.) . . . Salvador Dali tells friends he's going to produce a "dream ballet" in Monte Carlo this August, and vows the entire stage will be coated with a thin film of lavender-scented soap — "to set the right mood for the dancers." (And help them skid?)

a Negro and they weren't too keen about him, either."

About the Negro problem: "I used to carry around a fair-sized chip about racial discrimination. I was ready to fight for the rights of my people, although I didn't personally have too rough a time when I started back in Brooklyn. But I suppose that on the way up enough happened to make me embittered. Still, that's a long time ago. I don't get hep up about that kind of thing nowadays. Daddy (husband Lennie Hayton) has helped a lot. Nothing bugs him. He just doesn't understand color prejudice and people worrying about getting older and taller."

Finally: "I don't want to conquer the world and put it right like I used to. I don't want to spit in anybody's eye anymore. With one exception — Dr. Verwoerd and his entire cabinet."

The Four Violets have a pretty new record out on the ABC Paramount label — their version of an Italian song, called "This World We Live In." . . . Josh Logan has finally finished editing "Fanny" and this week added the musical background to the sound track. Those who've seen it believe it will emerge as his all-time masterpiece—a tender, moving story in beautiful color.

Jerry Lewis doesn't care what he does to establish institutions. He's planning a comedy version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," and the zags whipped up so far are supposed to be so funny that Hollywood fan magazines are begging permission to cover the story conferences. . . . The Curtis Furler's are a trombonist with the Quincy Jones jazz band are lullabying a baby son, Gerald Arnold. . . . The beatnik set in Greenwich Village have a password warning when they see the police stroll around. They say, "Here comes the coffee."

Carla Allorghi, Anna Maria's younger sister, is being highly touted for the leading feminine role in the national company of "Carnival" — which is sure to become a reality as soon as they can glue one together. . . . "Li'l Abner," which has no significance to Italians, is being shown in Italy under the title "The Craziest Village In The World" . . . Gene Krupa, drumming up jam-packed business at the Metropole these nights, has taken a swing into the prizefight world. He's now managing the career of a promising young light — weight from Chicago, George Fremont.

What's the mystery about the flicker, "The Last Sunset"? It was finished more than five

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 4. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 4-15

Laos Evacuates
Airdrop Troops

By JOHN RODERICK

VIETNAMESE, Laos (AP)—Western diplomats here were plunged into despair Friday by the evacuation without a major fight — of royal paratroopers dropped near Muong Kassy nine days ago.

The Westerners had hoped for a decisive push by royal forces before an expected cease-fire is negotiated with pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebel leaders.

The evacuation was off as a failure of the most spectacular operations of the civil war —

the April 5 air drop interpreted by Westerners as a warning to the Pathet Lao that government forces still were powerful despite a succession of defeats.

Young American civilian pilot flying U. S. made helicopter checked the red-beretted paratroopers from a valley northwest of Muong Kassy Thursday and took them to the royal capital of Luang Prabang.

The paratroopers had been dropped near the north-south highway between Luang Prabang and the administrative capital of Vientiane to counter paratroopers the Pathet Lao had thrown into the field April 3 for royal military headquarters at Yang Vieng.

Government officials claimed their paratroopers had accomplished their mission of halting the rebel drive southward. But earlier this week Moscow radio reported the government paratroopers were encircled.

It was reliably reported in Vientiane that the evacuation finally was forced by the failure of Gen.

Boun Leuth, government commander in chief based in Luang

Prabang, to commit infantry from the north to support the paratroopers and outflank Pathet Lao units.

Gen. Kouprasith Abhay, government commander in the Yang

Vieng area, was said to consider the whole paratrooper operation useless without such support.

Evacuation apparently was carried out without loss of any of the 20 large helicopters donated to the royal government by the United States and serviced by a U. S. Marine detachment at Eloen, Thailand.

Vietnamese citizens were busy with their four-day celebration of the Buddhist New Year.

Hiram Griffin

Wins Acquittal

In Court Action

Judge Paul Stephens found

Hiram W. Griffin innocent of two charges of attempted dog theft

Friday in Fourth District Court.

Griffin has maintained from the start that he picked up the dogs in the street, so they would not be hit by passing cars, and that he intended to find the owners and return the animals.

All state witnesses said that the action occurred in daylight, and that Griffin was driving an auto plainly marked "Griffin's Night Service."

Dogs involved are Doberman

Pinschers, valued at $300 by their owners.

Stephens said he was impressed by the testimony by all witnesses who appeared against Griffin, and indicated that their statements actually showed that the defendant was innocent.

India Splits

Over Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—

India took issue with the Soviet bloc Friday and called for con-

Ambassador C. S. Jha outlined the Indian position in the assemassembly itself neared a vote on rival resolutions containing formulas for bringing peace and unity to the divided Congo.

The resolutions renew the call political advisers from the Congo, but there are differences among Asian-African sponsors on whether a specific deadline should be fixed.

They call also for new meas-factions and urge a reconvening of Parliament. A separate Soviet resolution proposes a 21-day dead-

Hero Honors Taken With Frozen Calm

MOSCOW (AP)—For a man who has been plummeted from a simple pilot's life to world fame and national honors, Yuri Gagarin seems to take the whole business with frozen calm.

He is small, only an inch or two over five feet. Even Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who must lean back to look up at most of his marshals, is nearly half a head taller than Gagarin, although the premier is much wider.

Gagarin, son of a worker, has been trained in Communist schools and in the party regime, and to Russians he is just right—especially to his proud mother and father and wife, who were present at Friday's mammoth Moscow reception. He has relatively trim features, dark brown hair and light blue eyes. His face is of a Russian type that could be spotted a block away.

He had such a test of nerves Friday as must have paralleled—even though in differing form—the flight he made last Wednesday into the cosmos.

His name never had been mentioned before in public print, unless perhaps in some obscure aviators' magazine. Friday his name was on the lips of the whole broad country, and he has had camera and television lenses pointed at his face for 20 times more hours than it took him to fly around the world and into history as the first cosmic man.

His wife described him as calm and kind and just. He told her only after she had had her second baby a month ago that he had been selected to go into space.

There has been no public report of the process by which he was chosen. It has been assumed many young men volunteered for the assignment.

But, suddenly, here he is with his life ahead so glaring with publicity that if he ever has an hour of calm in the Soviet Union, it will be amazing.

He beams confidence, although he is not brash and not especially easy in manner. Still, when half the Presidium hugged and kissed him Friday night in the biggest Kremlin celebration in half a generation, he hugged and kissed back. But he hardly ever smiled, except for a brief second when Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, the defense minister, grabbed him with a big bear hug and lifted him time after time off the floor.

U.N. Airlifting Indian Troops Into Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—United Nations aircraft have been airlifting 2,000 Indian troops from the Tanganyika seaport of Dar Es Salaam directly to the Katanga base in Katanga Province, it was reported Friday.

There was no immediate reaction from the government of President Joseph Tshombe, now feuding with U.N. forces in the Elisabethville area. In the past he has called the movement of Indian troops to Katanga Province a warlike gesture.

When the airlift is completed there will be more than 3,000 Indian Gurkha troops in the former Belgian army base. Another 1,400 were flown from Leopoldville last month.

In other Congo developments:—Congolese sources speculated the central government soon may restore diplomatic relations with Belgium. Then Premier Patrice Lumumba broke off relations when Belgian troops intervened after the mutiny of Congolese troops.

—The central government was reported split over whether to push ahead with plans to make peace with the rival Stanleyville regime headed by Antoine Gizenga or to meet with Tshombe first. Either course would be a next step toward formation of a Congo federation.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. Theodore Van Dellen

STERIODS FOR HAIR REGROWTH

Mary was horrified when, on looking into the mirror, she saw a bald spot on the side of her head. When another patch appeared a week later, she called her physician. The diagnosis was alopecia areata, one of the easiest disorders to diagnose and—until recently—one of the easiest to treat.

Victims develop baldness varying from a small patch to total loss of hair. The cause is not known, but the condition may follow periods of stress associated with excessive worry, nervousness and tension. In many instances, hair comes back in time, but waiting for the first few tufts to appear is frustrating.

Hydrocortisone is the latest remedy but the way this steroid is used is tricky and tedious. The product is of no value when taken by mouth or administered by hypodermically into an arm. It must be injected under the upper layers of the scalp to be effective. But that's not all. Hair regrows only where the product is injected. Furthermore, the steroid must be in an insoluble form. The results are not good when watery solutions are injected.

Apparently the product is absorbed so rapidly the active ingredients do not have time to work on the hair roots. The insoluble solution remains under the skin, where the active ingredients protect and nurture the hair follicles. Regrowth takes place within three to six weeks after the treatment is started but not everyone gets a luxurious growth. In many it is patchy; in others, little more than a few tufts or tufts.

Since hair often returns spontaneously in alopecia areata, the ultimate results are good. Hydrocortisone at best stimulates or hastens the process. But of greater importance is the fact that this is only the beginning of new re-

Insanity Plea Entered In Assault Try

William Francis Morgan, 22-year-old Monroe man, filed a plea of present insanity Friday in Fourth District Court. He is charged with attempted aggravated rape.

Morgan of 500 N. Fifth St. is charged with entering the home of a teenage northside housewife, and attempting to assault her earlier this month.

Judge Paul Stephens sentenced Mrs. Dixie Ann Hodge, 28, to three years in the Louisiana State Penitentiary on a charge of forgery, and two years concurrent on each of seven felony theft charges. He then suspended sentence.

She will be on probation for three years. One major condition of the probation is that she must pay back the money involved.

Formerly a night clerk in the Monroe police department, Mrs. Hodge of 603 Adcock St. was charged with forgery of a $10 check, and theft by check of $132.50 merchandise, $92 worth of toys, $40.07 in groceries and money, $17.03 merchandise, $33.99 merchandise, $42.30 merchandise and $42.12 merchandise.

Each check was signed with a name other than that of Mrs. Hodge.

Harold Ray Crowell pled guilty to simple burglary of the Louisiana Department of Revenue motor vehicle division office, and simple burglary of a safe containing more than $5,000 in cash and checks.

He was remanded for pre-sentence investigation. Two other men of the four charged with the offense, after they pled guilty earlier this week.

Everett Sanderson of Boyce pled guilty to theft of $19 and was remanded until pre-sentence investigation is completed.

Sam Edward Smith Jr., 19, route one, Haughton, charged with two counts of forgery, was sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, concurrent, and then sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation.

Judge Stephens appointed attorneys for three men.

Charles Traylor was appointed to defend Joseph Brown, 39, Negro, Wisner, slated for trial May 1 on a charge of simple burglary of the Red Front Cafe, 101 North 11 St., on March 12. A. Carl Parkinson was appointed to defend A. L. Woodward, 60.

Woodward is slated for trial on May 4 on a forgery charge.

St. Elmo Johnson was appointed to defend Oliver Page, 42, Negro, 121 Cherry St., West Monroe. He will be tried May 15 on a charge of attempting to murder Mason Hall on March 4.

Herman Trichell, 709 Oak St. and Norwood (Nob) Wall, Swartz, were slated for trial on charges of taking rabbits at night with headlights and gun, on Feb. 6.
